The Journal of Communication in Healthcare: Strategies, Media, and Engagement in Global Health (JCIH), a leading peer-reviewed journal published by Taylor & Francis, is seeking an excellent communicator, good writer, and avid social media and technology user as a Summer/Fall 2022 communication intern to support different communication and technology-related activities.

Specific tasks include: help manage the Journal's social media channels on Twitter and LinkedIn; develop relevant content and graphic imagery to be used on social media; create a schedule of posts; create and maintain the Journal's website for podcasts on SoundCloud; edit podcast files and upload on SoundCloud; format and proofread Journal Editorials, Letters, Commentaries and other occasional articles; participate in weekly editorial meetings; as well as other tasks as assigned by the editorial team. The intern should be driven, creative, self-motivated, and be able to keep up with the latest social media and technology trends. Ability to work independently in a virtual environment with weekly online meetings with JCIH editorial team, and problem-solving skills are required. Advanced undergraduate students with relevant experience and interest in communication, marketing, public health, healthcare, international affairs, etc. will be considered.

The summer internship will be from May 16, 2022 to August 12, 2022, and the fall internship will be from September 7, 2022 to December 12, 2022. Preference will be given to candidates who are able to stay both summer and fall semesters. We require a minimum commitment of 5-6 hours/week. This internship is unpaid. Internships may count towards academic credits based on the requirements of the university.

To express your interest in this position, please send a cover letter and your CV to Radhika Ramesh at: JCIH.ed@gmail.com