

NRHM Special Issue Proposal

The Proposed Special Issue

Proposed Special Issue title:

Alignment to journal key themes

Please indicate which of the journal's key themes (see journal Aims and Scope) the Special Issue aligns to.

Synopsis

Please provide a brief synopsis and rationale for the Special Issue.

Proposed timeline

Please provide tentative dates for the following milestones:

Date Call for Papers published online (if appropriate)

Date manuscripts due

Date first review round completed

Date revised manuscripts due

Date of final notification

Size of the Special Issue

A Special Issue consists of an Introduction and a number of papers. Please indicate the number of papers the Special Issue would aim to include.

Related Special Issues

Please give details of any other current or recent previous Special Issues which address similar topics to the proposed Special Issue.

Submissions

Invitation type

Please indicate whether submission to the Special Issue will be via an open Call for Papers or by Invitation Only.

Associated events

Please indicate any event that is directly associated with the Special Issue. For example, if the proposed Special Issue will be based on work presented at a specific conference or workshop. It is anticipated that Guest Editors will be part of the organisation of any such event, or have prior agreement from those organising it.

Dissemination

Please identify specific channels through which the Call for Papers or Invitation will be disseminated. For example, an Open Call might be disseminated via particular mailing lists; an Invitation might be sent to selected presenters from a workshop.

Reviewing

Please provide the name, institutional email and institutional homepage of five people you are likely to invite as reviewers for the Special Issue.

Guest Editor/s

All Guest Editors should be recognised experts in the field the Special Issue concerns. For each Guest Editor, please provide the information below. Please also identify the Lead or Corresponding Guest Editor.
